

DLI.tools Unveils DOCOVA in the Cloud

When Simple Sharing is NOT enough...

LOTUSPHERE, Orlando, Fla. January 16, 2012. DLI.tools has announced the availability of DOCOVA.net, the cloud-based offering of its award winning Enterprise Content Management (ECM) platform. DOCOVA.net will debut at Lotusphere 2012 in private beta.

DOCOVA.net is a clear alternative to simple cloud-based file sharing and storage offerings. Customers can start simple and as their organizational needs expand, DOCOVA.net grows with them, without the need to integrate with disparate and external ECM solutions.

DOCOVA.net evolves mobile content management beyond simple sharing, with integrated workflow, version control and desktop software integration to applications like Microsoft Office, IBM Lotus Notes, and Microsoft Outlook/Exchange.

DOCOVA offers access to your business documents and content from anywhere, on any device. Access DOCOVA.net information from your PC, tablet (iPhone, Android, etc), or smart phone (Android, iPhone, Blackberry, etc).

DOCOVA.net is ideal for ad-hoc, short term and permanent collaboration and content management needs. Developers can create custom, integrated applications in the cloud with DOCOVA's Web Application Framework.

"DOCOVA.net is the next step in the evolution of DOCOVA." states John Ryan, Co-founder and CIO, DLI.tools, "The problem with ECM deployments is that they are often tackled as big projects that inherently cost a lot and carry many risks. Some vendors offer simpler cloud solutions that have less risk but are by their nature, limited in scope and hence organizations outgrow them quickly. DOCOVA.net offers a way to start simple with less risk. When a company is ready to tackle their more complex content scenarios, they can. Our solution scales to meet their needs. With DOCOVA in the cloud, organizations now have access to a complete ECM solution in a fraction of the time to deploy several other on-premise solutions and our pricing model brings enterprise-class content management to the mass market."

Pricing for DOCOVA.net will be on a per-user basis. Organizations or individuals signing up for the private beta during Lotusphere will receive special introductory pricing, starting as low as $19.99/user/month. DOCOVA.net makes enterprise content management and collaboration affordable for all organizations, from small business, departments or project teams straight through to large enterprises.

DOCOVA.net is one of several announcements made by DLI.tools at Lotusphere. Other announcements include their mobile connect platform, Notes2Net, offline capabilities, the latest updates to the IBM Lotus Domino Document Manager (Domino.doc) Migration Module and a technical preview of DOCOVA 3.5.
